More about FILM & VIDEO PRODUCTION TECHNOLOGY

The Film and Video Production Technology (FVPT) program prepares students for entry-level employment in the film and video industry. Students receive training in the technical areas of camera, lighting, sound operations, and digital editing. Students also learn makeup and wardrobe and production management.

First year students take classes that feature intensive, hands-on instruction that introduce them to professional filmmaking technologies and concepts, taught by instructors with extensive experience in the motion picture industry. Second year students receive more professional instruction as they assume positions as crew leaders on actual film projects mentored by faculty and staff.

Outlook for EMPLOYMENT

Graduates of the FVPT program are typically hired as:

- Camera Assistants
- Lighting Technicians
- Sound Recordists
- Makeup Artists
- Set Dressers and
- Production Assistants

Our graduates have been able to advance and move up in the ranks because of the solid foundation built in the FVPT program at PCC.
